juno

Don't place your bets on me
You'd be one hell of a wife
I can't afford no ring, girl
He'd probably treat you better than me
Better than me, girl

I'm in your bed alone
On nights I'd rather be by myself
I hate checking my phone
It's just another person I left
On the bright side
You believe me
When I say I'm at my best
It's a lotta words
I should say to you
But they're better off in my head, oh

California summer
You crash like the waves on me
I hate to see you go
I heard you love another one
I don't blame you
I can't blame you at all
California summer
Know you got a place to be
I hate to see you go
I heard you got another one
I can't blame you
Who could blame you at all?

Big brown eyes
You're looking at me like I almost hurt myself
We've been through hell
But nothing could compare to this now
You know
The best things don't come easy
And the worst times rarely last
I see your image through stained windows
Kiss me through the glass, oh

I'm in my head alone now
On nights I'd rather be in your bed
You hate the way it goes
I'm just another person that left
On the bright side, you can move on
With your life with no regrets
There's a lot things I should say to you
But they're buried in my chest, oh

California summer
I hate to see you go
I heard you love another one
I don't blame you
I can't blame you at all
California summer

I hate to see you go
Who could blame you at all?
