

Hearing Things

Justin Moore

I been stuck here in this traffic jam pulling out my hair I been burning gas for the past half hour and I still ain't got nowhere

Yeah, I moved to the city to get me a pretty little piece of the pie

But right now I'd trade all the pay in my pocket for just a little peace of mind

'Cause I'm losing mine, I think I'm going crazy, hearing things in my head life

Truck tires rolling on a gravel road, AM static on the radio Pine trees swinging and singing when the wind blows, I swear I'm hearing things like

Muddy water rippling on the riverbank, the lonesome whistle of a midnight train

It sounds crazy, I know, but I'm hearing things and they're calling
me home

You can hear honking horns from the 21st floor and man it's hard to tune it out

I wanna get somewhere with some fresh air where all you hear with the windows down is

Truck tires rolling on a gravel road, AM static on the radio Pine trees swinging and singing when the wind blows, I swear I'm
hearing things like

Muddy water rippling on the riverbank, the lonesome whistle of
a midnight train

It sounds crazy, I know, but I'm hearing things and they're calling
me home

I think I'm losing my mind, I think I'm going crazy, hearing things in my head like

Truck tires rolling on a gravel road, AM static on the radio
Pine trees swinging and singing when the wind blows, I swear I'm
hearing things like

Muddy water rippling on the riverbank, the lonesome whistle of
a midnight train

It sounds crazy, I know, but I'm hearing things and they're calling
me home

Yeah, they're calling me home

I'm hearing things and they're calling me home
