This is an ambush Yo, check it

Lookin' at my watch it's about that time to ascend with this art of Zen Another rhyme manifested in the physical miracle emcee—in'
Leading to a revolution
Solution is seeing the mind as it rotates
Make no debate, when I regulate, all the gens will terminate
'Cause we cut and slice irrelevance to the bone
And decapitate rappers that idolize Al Capone or Jimmy Hoffa
Not a hip—hop poppa, just a vigilante with the mic that I shot ya
Chopped up, beat 'em and we proceeded to rock the bells
Movin' quite well, so we got 'em hopped up
Trained, raw, like Big Daddy Kane
Plus I'm born on the same day as Kurt Cobain
Rap +Nirvana+, call me the beat piranha
Without the drama, yeah

Don't get this wrong
This revolution song
Hoping the wind can blow your way for once
A man is truly dead when confident
That's why we're all still waiting here so long

Astrologically, I'm the water and the fish Made a wish, now I'm stone-cold lyrical catalyst I don't eat fish, chicken or hamburger But I eat 40 emcees on a hot plate God's great Magnificent and munificent This is militant, in particular significant To the people, masses, lower classes Making the hardest of hard keloidal and flaccid Contaminants with backstage laminate sheet unoriginal thoughts That's why we stay adamant Which we perceive to alter the mind-state Making time wait, holding us up for hostage I lost it somewhere back in '96 When it's safe I'll play the game, I'm back in the mix With a brand-new bag of magic and pixie dust Love hip-hop, pray it never turns into lust (take it out)

Don't get this wrong
This revolution song
Hoping the wind can blow your way for once
A man is truly dead when confident
That's why we're all still waiting here so long

Hey! Hey! Hey!

Aiiiiiieeeee!

Don't get this wrong
This revolution song
Hoping the wind can blow your way for once
A man is truly dead when confident
That's why we're all still waiting here so long

Commandante, come back home
Commandante, come back home
Commandante, come back home
That's why we're all still waiting here so long