

If I Could Say

Kacy Hill

You know, I never see it coming
The stillness of winter in the spring
We brush by as strangers passing
The same route every single day

Alone with myself
I start believing

And maybe you'll find me someday
When it's just right in the least expected way
It'll feel so, so familiar
Like not a day's passed since last I felt your weight

Alone with myself
I start believing
I start believing

If I could say I'm good within reason
Alone with myself
If I could say I'm good within reason
If I could say I'm good within reason
Alone with myself
If I could say I'm good within reason
Alone with myself
And I'll start believing
