Count On My Love

Count on the rain It's gonna fall There will be days When you'll wonder If you can keep holding on And as hard as you'll try There will be nights When you'll feel like You're gonna break down and cry

Alone and in need If you say a prayer And reach out to me

I will be here Right by your side Count on my love Everyday of your life I will be here Pulling you through Count on me loving you

Count on a dream Falling apart There will be times When you'll feel The whole world is Breaking your heart

And when you're afraid If you close your eyes And call out my name

I will be here Right by your side Count on my love Everyday of your life I will be here Pulling you through Count on me loving you

Through all your tears And through all the pain You can count on my love Every step of the way?

I will be here Right by your side Count on my love Everyday of your life I will be here Pulling you through Count on me loving you