

The Chase

Kang Daniel

We don't save our voices, we just scream the song
Dancing like the floor might crack before too long
Everybody's laughing, but it feels like tears
We're too young to worry, too numb to hear our fears

We don't save our voices, we just scream the song
Dancing like we knew it wouldn't last this long
Everybody's laughing, but it feels like tears
Forgetting every promise made in all those years

So what if tomorrow's gone?
We'll burn out before the dawn
We're alive, we don't stay long
Turn it up, the night goes on

Chase what you feel, break what was real
Every scar reminds us how we feel
Caught in the craze, lost in your grace
Every sound just pulls me through the maze
Oh, we're burning, burning slow
Let the night take all we know
Hands up high, hearts on fire
We'll fade out, never tired

We don't save our voices, we just scream the song
Dancing like the floor might crack before too long
Everybody's laughing, but it feels like tears
We're too young to worry, too numb to hear our fears

Bass cuts deep, the ceiling shakes above the crowd
Colors change but nothing ever slows us down
Every step keeps burning through the room tonight
Every touch feels louder than the city lights

So what if tomorrow's gone?
We'll burn out before the dawn
We're alive, we don't stay long
Turn it up, the night goes on

Chase what you feel, break what was real
Every scar reminds us how we feel
Caught in the craze, lost in your grace
Every sound just pulls me through the maze
Oh, we're burning, burning slow
Let the night take all we know
Hands up high, hearts on fire
We'll fade out, never tired
