

Throwing Mountains

Kansas

Too many times in the past
I tried to climb the mountain
But the inner voices laughed
Too many blocks in the road
I tried to find a new way
But there's nowhere else to go

But now I silence the crowd
And nothing can stand in my way

Throwing mountains to the sky
And the shadows reveal the horizon
Driving oceans to the side
And my footprints will cross the divide

New pressures weighing me down
I want to take the first step
But I'm tethered to the doubt
Too many forces collide
This requires something bigger
Than confidence and pride

I won't hold back anymore
Nothing can stand in my way

Throwing mountains to the sky
And the shadows reveal the horizon
Driving oceans to the side
And my footprints will cross the divide

Too many times in the past
I ran toward the ocean
And I was frozen in my tracks
So many times on the path
I felt the power coursing
But the lightning didn't last

But now the moment is here
Nothing can stand in my way

Throwing mountains to the sky
And the shadows reveal the horizon
Driving oceans to the side
And my footprints will cross the divide

Throwing mountains to the sky
And the shadows reveal the horizon
Driving oceans to the side
And my footprints will cross the divide