It Just Takes One

Karla Bonoff

I remember how it was when you came along You said that you felt weak, with me you were strong You were sure you'd finally found the way That makes you the fool who walked away

It took two to find the love you buried deep inside And it took two to promise we would never let it die Yes, it took two and you know it doesn't seem right It just takes one to say goodbye

I was tired of making deals and just getting burned It was different this time, æD¶ause you said you'd learned To say words that you could never say But the thing you still know best is running away

When the years go by, you'll see you don't have enough But just remember you gave up when the going got rough And you thought that it would set you free But it's true love that you trade can't you see
