Room for Happiness (feat. Skylar Grey)

Kaskade

Sometimes I wish I never felt the influence of you
Coz now I feel a disconnect, like an open wound
Where you once were, there's now a stain that runs as deep as hell
But every morning when I wake I tell myself

Don't be fooled by your emptiness, there's so much more room for happiness
Don't be fooled by your emptiness, there's so much more room for happiness
Yeah, yeah, yeah

Sometimes it's worth to have lost than to have never had at all
It's a curse, to feel love and to feel it all dissolved
Where you once were, there's now a stain that runs as deep as hell
But every morning when I wake I tell myself

Don't be fooled by your emptiness, there's so much more room for happiness
Don't be fooled by your emptiness, there's so much more room for happiness

Yeah, yeah, yeah

Don't be fooled by your emptiness, there's so much more room for happiness
