

Song to the Moon

Katherine Jenkins

Silvery moon in the velvet sky
Your light shines far in the heavens
Over the world, wandering
Gazing in human dwellings
Over the world, wandering
Gazing in human dwellings

Oh, once in awhile, stay with me
Tell me where is my love, where?
Oh, once in awhile, stay with me
Tell me where is my love, where?

Tell him, oh, tell him, silver moon
That in my arms, I enfold him
Tell him he dreams to tangle me
Even if only for a moment
Tell him in dreams to think of me
Even if just for a moment

Shine on in reverie, shine on him
Tell him, oh, tell him I am here, waiting
Shine on in reverie, shine on him
Tell him, oh, tell him I am here, waiting

If a human soul should dream of me
May he still remember me on waking
Dear moon, oh, shine for him
Shine for him
Shine, oh, shine for him
