

3AM Phonecall

Kathryn Williams

I've been here before this situation is sold
The form that it takes
And the end result
Your life feels it's been wrote into
The same sad ending
Your heart keeps on holding
For the next script to come in

It's the game you've entered
And life's what you're getting
Life has always been yours

She looked up quick and back down
Like a flash from a light house
He noticed the sea asleep in her eyes
He knew from that point
That this was her gift to him
Movement of the moon
And love with no sad end

It's the game you've entered
And life's what you're getting
Life has always been yours

It's the game you've entered
And life's what you're getting
Life has always been yours
Life has always been yours
