

Love of My Life

Kathy Troccoli

There are so many different kinds of love
And I think that I've tried them all
But just when I'm feelin' secure with one
My heartstrings break and I begin to fall
So I pick up my feelings and put them away
Thinking no one could ever care
But then He moved into that place in my heart
He understood and now He's always there

And now the love of my life has come over me
Released my soul and set it free
And the love of my life He will always be
The one and only love of my life

I had longed for love that was perfectly pure
And a bond that was equally strong
So I went through the motions a thousand times

But what I thought was love turned out to be all wrong
Then He showed me how He could be everything
My husband, my maker, my friend
I've never been loved like this before
And He promised me this love would never end

And now the love of my life has come over me
Released my soul and set it free
And the love of my life He will always be
The one and only love of my life

And now the love of my life has come over me
Released my soul and set it free
And the love of my life He will always be
The one and only love of my life
The one and only love of my life
The one and only love of my life
