

Missing You

Kathy Troccoli

I heard about the day You went away
You said You had to go prepare a place
And even though I've never seen Your face
I'm missing You

I lie awake tonight and I watch the sky
And I wish it didn't have to be so high
'Cause I'm belonging on the other side
And I'm missing you

'Cause somewhere behind those stars
Is Someone who belongs to me
And I know in my deepest heart there's a place for You
Until I find the place You've made for me, still I'm missing You

I dream about Your promise to return
And I wake up hanging on Your every word
But for now my feet are planted here on earth
So I'm missing You

And even though they say that I'm a fool
I know You see me waiting here for You
Oh and praying that somehow You'll get here soon
'Cause I'm missing You

And somewhere behind those stars
Is Someone who belongs to me
And I know in my deepest heart there's a place for You
Until I find the place You've made for me, still I'm missing You

How much longer will it be
Till I get to see You
And though I know You're right here with me
Tell me when can I be there with You

'Cause somewhere behind those stars
Is Someone who belongs to me
And I know in my deepest heart there's a place for You
Until I find the place You've made for me, still I'm missing You
Oh I'm missing You, Lord, I'm missing You
