

Out Of The Blue

Katie Pruitt

You must've come from out of the blue
No other color would do
We watched the clouds move all around
Uncovering feelings unfound

And I can't imagine when
I can't imagine why I'd ever wanna leave you, dear
If we stay right here
We wouldn't have to worry about anything
But the morning came and stole you right
Out of the blue

Your eyes are full of yellows and greens
They turn into water and fall from your cheeks
Now we're going deep into the dark
And it's hard to tell where we are

And I can't imagine when
I can't imagine why I'd ever wanna leave you, dear
If we stay right here
We wouldn't have to worry about anything
But the morning fades and so do you
Out of the blue

Ooh, what a lovely day for loving you
Ooh, what a lovely day for loving you
Love, oh

The sunset, it bled orange and red
In a perfect explosion behind your head
While we're looking up, somehow we forget
That even the best days will end

Now I can't remember when
I can't remember why you packed your bags and left me here
It's been a whole year
Since we said we'd never find somebody new
Now I hardly ever talk to you
But today, I stopped and thought of you
Out of the blue
Out of the blue
Out of the blue
Out of the blue
Out of the blue
Out of the blue
Out of the blue
Out of the blue
Out, out of the blue
