

Untitled

Katy McAllister

His blue eyes were the first
The way he spoke few words
Locked eyes and I was cursed
Next thing I know I'm trapped
We're laying in the grass
And you've got me all wrapped up in your shirt

After that summer you went unheard
And I thought someday maybe I will get my turn

With someone like you
Who won't see right through
Someone naive as me
Who gets caught in these blurry things
In these one sided dreams
Summer romance
Can be something so bittersweet
Cause it's not always what it seems
But while you're out there finding out who you wanna be
I hope you'll remember me.

The weeks we stayed in touch
I'd let myself get all caught up
On thoughts of how it could be
And then you'd come along
Another June is gone
And you're out chasing crazy things

Summer gets closer
Another year older
And you're coming back, you're coming back again
And I'm hoping again

That someone like you
Won't see right through
Someone naive as me
Who gets caught in these blurry things
In these one sided dreams
Summer romance
Can be something so bittersweet
Cause it's not always what it seems
But while you're out there finding out who you wanna be
I hope you'll remember me.

I should've opened up your eyes
Cause I've waited all this time
Just to sit across from you and say more than nothing
But if I knew what I know now
Then I would've made a sound
Maybe tell you what you see now, I saw then.

Someone like you
Looking right through
These eyes and I'm infatuated
Cause I never thought you would say this
Summer romance
It's sweet how you don't see

That sometimes it's exactly what it seems
And I'm still figuring out who I wanna be
But I hope you'll figure it out with me.