

Over The Edge

Kazzer

Seems I got a second to reflect and put my life on pause stand back from the mirror try to search out a cause cause life has got me down some times I'm tryin to figure out exactly who's a friend of mine and what they're all about and when the goings good, you know you'll see your people there

but if you slip up we'll see who really cares, takin' care of the situe when you're forced to deal with issues work a twelve or nine to five one day it finally hits you that it's not that simple got to search for solutions, got a stack full of bills and it's filled with diversions
I know I know it all but I still got a lot of learnin
On a straight and narrow path, I keep 'er stiff instead of sear chin,
I'll try to get it straight, before it's too late

I know it's all in my head, cause I can't control my fate
Don't push me over the edge
Don't let the anger spread, there's too much on my plate
Don't push me over the edge,
We all walk that line, I'm reaching the end

Doesn't it piss you off, when no one listens, try to get to the point
But the point is what they're missin, and you're fixin' to snap
Try to hold it all back, when the walls are ready to crack, Don't let it collapse
I need a breath of fresh air, I gotta clear my mind, learn to w alk away and just leave it all behind, But I find that my stressing only leads to depression never lea rnin a lesson, is it really that bad I'm glad a caught a glimpse cause way too many people loose it, I'm equipped with a short fuse,
Not afraid of anything but that's what scares me the most,
You're mixin with the wrong dude, I wouldn't get too close,
I'll just try to get it straight before its too late

It's all in my head, I can't control my fate
Don't push me over the edge
