

Warfare

Keith Wallen

What have, we both become?
Who is, the broken one?
Just too, afraid to love
But never, decide to run

And we never say, what we want
So we never get, what we need
And it's never, anybody's fault
And you know, I still believe
I feel like, we never wanted this
Too much pride, to give up
Too tired, to go on

So why don't we stop, this warfare?
Forgive and surrender with, arms in the air?
Search in the gray, for a break in the storm
If you're there (if you're there)
Stop this warfare

What do we, have to lose?
Harder to have, to choose
Nothing, is left to prove
Willing yourself, to move

And we never say, what we want
So we never get, what we need
Too much pride, to give up
Too tired, to go on

So why don't we stop, this warfare?
Forgive and surrender with, arms in the air?
Search in the gray, for a break in the storm
If you're there (if you're there)
Stop this warfare

I don't wanna face, this world alone
I need you, with me
What are we waiting for?
What are we fighting for?

So why don't we stop, this warfare?
Forgive and surrender with, arms in the air?
Search in the gray, for a break in the storm
If you're there (if you're there)
Stop this warfare

Why don't we stop, this warfare?
(Forgive and surrender with, arms in the air)
Search in the gray, for a break in the storm
(Are you there, are you there, are you there?)
Stop this warfare
