

(Heroes are really boring
 Uh, the real interesting things are the off-center values of people
 You know, those are the things that trouble most people
 "Do I belong here?"
 "Who are my friends?"
 "Does anybody like me?"
 God, you know, it's terrifying to be on your own in this world)

I once asked if God could please change me
 I wasn't gone, I stay if you didn't fix me

I, as I lay here in a better life
 No more talking young [?]
 Your eyes to find it all
 Ain't to way to really step forward
 Got me doing all these full stops
 Why can't you see that I'm in pain

But you didn't heal me
 No, you didn't fix my wounds
 You didn't answer my prayer, oh
 Guess you couldn't heal me
 Just left with a lonely stare

I once asked if God could please change me
 I wasn't gone, I stayed
 He didn't fix me

But he didn't heal me
 No, he didn't fix my wounds
 He didn't answer the prayer
 I was just left standing there
 Guess he was just busy
 And I was left blue and sad
 So I had to change myself
 Oh I had to tame myself

He didn't fix me
 I was a young thug [?] down from outer space
 I never knew love was a risk I had to face
 She talkin' real loud but I'm left with a bitter taste
 I've got to change my ways

Just want you to fix me
 Prayers you'll make
 Why don't you come and change me, yeah, yeah
 Oh

But he didn't heal me
 No
 No, he didn't fix me
 He didn't fix me
