

Multilateral

Kekal

have you ever ruminated about over-imposed vanity trying to keep the ground from floating into obscurity any attempt to summarize manifold complexities will find itself in a position where truth is just a mere property this room shall blend all the sounds of ideals coming from distinct opinions and theories unity is chaos and pandemonium on a set of wheels walls will administer contrasting sources without partiality set your attack - set your decay i want to believe there is assurance beyond all reasons maneuvers that eliminate contradictory matters of distinctions twisting perilously until all sounds start to dissolve and fade this selfishness will shatter as space inside began to agitate