nothing makes you feel bitterer than being removed from the core autonomy without sense of realization speeding towards non-destination like a demon in the family of angels an alien within my own existence there is no place to fit in regardless of what i do and who i am learning the mechanism of pain that follows the same pathway as mine as suffering is part of one's experience in life that should never be denied i have become a slave to my own way of understanding there is no place to fulfill my desire to escape from reality
