

Baggage

Kelsea Ballerini

I don't pack light, I travel for a living

Mm

And I don't abide by that 50-pound limit

On that Delta flight out West, I'm there every other Wednesday

But my heart ain't up in the air, so if you want me

Clear out a drawer, clear out a shelf

I wouldn't wanna do it with anybody else

Everything that's heavy, I check it at the door

Kind of feel like I don't need it anymore

I got some bones of old skeletons

From the old house at the dead end

I got baggage, but I'm moving in

We both slept on a mattress with "I love you" people

Mm

Shit, I even took it all the way to the steeple

So, boy, I know the weight and gravity of key chains with same keys

But if you want that "Welcome" mat, then roll it out with me and

Clear out a drawer, clear out a shelf

I wouldn't wanna do it with anybody else

Everything that's heavy, I check it at the door

Kind of feel like I don't need it anymore

I got some bones of old skeletons

From the old house at the dead end

I got baggage, but I'm moving in

To those thoughts in your head

My hand, back pocket of your jeans

Linen sheets in our bed

'Cause home is when you're with me

So

Clear out a drawer, clear out a shelf

I wouldn't wanna do it with anybody else

Everything that's heavy, I check it at the door

Kind of feel like I don't need it anymore

I got some bones of old skeletons

From the old house at the dead end

I got baggage, but I'm moving in

Clear out a drawer, clear out a shelf

I wouldn't wanna do it with anybody else
