

Daughter of the Night

Kelsy Karter

Midnight, when the people sleep, I dance with the dark
City lights and crooked streets take me to her arms
Mistress of distress, hear her calling my name
Welcome me with a kiss of pleasure and pain

It feels like
Ooh-ooh-ahh

She got me screaming to the night, I'm begging for more
Nirvana every time she gets me alone
Show me all the dark side, bring it
Oh my, now I'm not going home
She hit me with a strike of lightning, shot through my bones
Covered in her diamonds, writing my song
This is my goodbye, I'm finally alive
And I'm not going home

Layla, my lady, born for racing
In her blood red Mercedes, let her take me where she wants
Oh, in come the tides with the sunrise, we swim
By the next time it comes, we'll be gone

She got me screaming to the night, I'm begging for more
Nirvana every time she gets me alone
Show me all the dark side, bring it
Oh my, now I'm not going home
She hit me with a strike of lightning, shot through my bones
Covered in her diamonds, writing my song
This is my goodbye, I'm finally alive
And I'm not going home

Mother, will you bring me back to life?
Oh, cover me and keep me by your side
Leave the light behind

She got me screaming to the night, I'm begging for more
Nirvana every time she gets me alone
Show me all the dark side, bring it
Oh my, now I'm not going home
She hit me with a strike of lightning, shot through my bones
Covered in her diamonds, writing my song
This is my goodbye, I'm finally alive
And I'm not going home
