

Planet

Kemopetrol

A brand new hope discovered through my telescope
I found you there hiding by the Little Bear
Alone in space - What's it like there in your place
It's easy to see you could use some company

The sky don't look the same
The stars are far too lame
To draw my attention away from the one
That caught my eye today

And I could teleport myself to you
If your planet is big enough for two
De- and rematerialise for you
If your planet is big enough for two
If your planet is big enough for two

I can't stay here
In this town it's all too clear
I'd like to be the one to solve your mystery

I'm only reaching out
That's what it's all about
The people here only shout
And it's something I could do without

So I would teleport myself to you
If your planet is big enough for two
De- and rematerialise for you
If your planet is big enough for two
If your planet is big enough for two
