Wizards Float

Kendra Morris

Imagination is the one thing that I find
Takes me to places that I escape to in my mind
People that I've never met
And faces that I can't forget
Leave me resting there

Dreams are how I find you
Dreams are how I find you

That I am brighter, stronger, more beautiful by far
I angle cameras from above to leave out where I'm scarred
It's all inside my drifting head
The stories that I ever read
They take me there

I didn't wanna be the one to owe
Looking for somewhere to rest my soul
Bouncing around where the sky does find
The line between heart and mind

Maybe if fragments of me are caught
And pieced together become what you hold
I wanna be something that I'm not
And in dreams anything becomes what you got

Whuhuhoh Whuhuhoh Whuhuhoh Whuhuhoh
Can you take me there?

Dust to dust our bodies rust, ignite with gasoline
Then set to flame behind closed eyes, until eventually Tumble timer, grain of sand
To find a cloud where you will land
Will you take me there?

I didn't wanna be the one to owe
Looking for somewhere to rest my soul
Bouncing around where the sky does find
The line between heart and mind

Maybe if fragments of me are caught
And pieced together become what you hold
I wanna be something that I'm not
And in dreams anything becomes what you got

Whuhuhoh Whuhuhoh Whuhuhoh Whuhuhoh
Can you take me there?
