

I'm traveling
I took the long road
I won't be back home
I'm gone again
And that is okay
Some things don't stay
There's a silhouette that's in my way
I fucked up this time, but what's new these days?
Take the blame or a sacrifice to blur out your ways
But I could never give a fuck because it's my life
Never patient
Nothing new to say
Keep your head down
Find a different way
At least that's what I hear
At least that's what I hear
At least that's what I hear now

They could never write my story
They could never drown my worries
Justify your silhouette
Always caught in the way
Of the sun, of the waves
I need 20k cash by sunset
Fuck a therapist, can't tell me what's in my head
If I recall you're not the one that got left in the rain
Through the night and the day
They could never write my story
You could never drown my worries
Justify your silhouette
Always caught in the way
Of the sun, of the waves

And I know what you're back for
And I've got it now
For now
You don't need it
You just want it
You just want it

They could never write my story
They could never drown my worries
Justify your silhouette
Always caught in the way
Of the sun, of the waves
I need 20k cash by sunset
Fuck a therapist, can't tell me what's in my head
Through the night and the day

They could never write my story
She could never drown my worries
Justify your silhouette
