Somewhat sickly at seventeen
I put my thoughts into art with dry ink and pen
Patching, sewing, like a Mother Goose
All through the night, I keep crying - I'll see you again

As an android with spinning springs
I have a voice and a head, but they're empty both
I feel down at every little thing
So all that I really need is just to have your love

Taking sick leave through seventeen
I put today in a can, since it's not too dim
Detonator and a paper bag
And like a fool, I decided I'd pack my breath in

To the android, you never show
You make up lies of the truth just to hide your you
I'm a ghost, yes, I know it's so
And so I wonder, is it true that you can't see me, too?

Singing back and forth all day long
That's what makes our ghost ship march on
Soon enough, I know there'll be no bad or good
Here we are in this neighborhood

B-B-B-Be something, and make the news about you
Find something to say, such that no one else will doubt you

Wreak havoc at every single station
Though you still don't see me, take me for my word

Boy soldier, it's words your voice is weaving
Cover up the exits, no one will be leaving
For a time, I thought this would bring me luck, but
Well, over time, I simply had to laugh

Well, over time, I simply had to laugh

Somewhat sickly at seventeen
I find today's like a movie, and I'm half-awake
It's a nearly loveless scene
Sure, you can dream what you want, but know it's always fake

As an android with spinning springs
I see such garbage, delinquents, and melancholy
I want you to know all these things
So let me take you in hand - you're coming back with me

Singing back and forth all day long
On the lookout, our ship sails on
Soon enough, I know there'll be no forward or back
So let's just forget it all

Wah! Wah! Wah! Wah!

M-M-M-March onward, our path is headed sunward
Time to take the plunge - on three, I'll give you one word
Wreak havoc at every single station
This is how it is, so take me for my word

Shout louder, until your throat is aching
Come, just take a look at what a stand they're taking
For a time, I thought this would bring me luck, but
I suppose I'll just enjoy it while it lasts

I suppose I'll just enjoy it while it lasts

Megaphones for all, and all acting as judges
Wreak havoc at every single station
This is just the truth, so take it as your word

Our ghost ship proceeds to leave its ire
Giving way to riot, spreading like a fire
For a time, I thought this would bring me luck, but
Now I know that more or less, it's just a lie

Now I know that more or less, it's just a lie
