Fairground

KeyWest

It's been a while since we've spoken
But I can still hear your voice
I toss and turn in my bed at night
As the deafening silence roars

So I stroll on down to the fairground
And get lost on the ferris wheel
I stroll around in the fairground
Just to remember how it feels

I made some bad decisions
But the worst by far was hurting you
Now I'm the last proud man, drinking at the bar
Oh, another loud mouth, drunken fool

So take me down to the fairground
So I can see all the lights
Just take me round in the fairground
Do you remember what it's like?

I saw you there again last night with him
And it broke my heart in two
'Cause I haven't you laugh that way in a long, long time
And I realise I really wasn't any good for you, oh

So I left you there at the fairground
And I'll remember you that way
Without a single care at the fairground
Oh, and I'm so glad you found your way

Lead me to the lights
Where the stars fall from the sky
Lead me to the lights
Where the stars fall from the sky
Lead me to the lights
Where the stars fall from the sky
Lead me to the lights
Where the stars fall from the sky

So I left you there at the fairground
And I'll remember you that way
Without a single care at the fairground
I'm so glad you found your way
