Killing Joke

85 people own half the world
It's raining barium and no-one's concerned
Constructive chaos, doctrines of shock
Circumventing constitutions
They'll never stop

Perpetual conflict, the only law
Desirability of peace shall be no more
The great motivator of man
Is always war
The All-Father of progress
God of the West

Cabals, self-elected elite

When getting to work costs more than you earn
And water tastes like waste
And is ready to burn
While you pay their taxes you pay their debt
You buy their bombs and you buy into death

Cabals, central banks
