Bon Voyage

Kim Carnes

Imagining the rainbow Trying to fit it in the sense of things That might have been Looking for the green flash Hitting milliseconds just before the sun goes in

Bon Voyage When you find the one Don't let her go Like you're letting me go

Bon Voyage After all this time you'd think We'd know Why are you letting me go

A magic in the moonlight In a bar beside the ocean Where we used to meet Caught up in our cicumstance We spin out wheels just Waiting for the string to break

I see your face in windows on the Seine I'm still sitting in a cafe where You said you'd wait Like some romantic moment on the screen You'd come running through that door And then you're gone again

Bon Voyage After all this time you'd think We'd know Why are you letting me go
