

Lighthouse

Kim Wilde

Watching the sailboats drift, so calm and sure upon a pale blue sea
Just like me
Moved by the gentle breeze
The storm has past at last there's time to breathe
I am free
I always believed that we had made a pact
But now, I know I'm never coming back

Lighthouse shine for me
I've been drifting so far
Guide me back from the sea
To the place I was before
I've been losing my way
Now, I can't see the stars anymore

And now as I reach the sand, my body cold
No one to take my hand
I understand
Truth harder than stone
Dark as an endless sleep
And now we know the devil and the deep

Oh, lighthouse shine for me
I've been drifting so far
Guide me back from the sea
To the place I was before
I've been losing my way
Now, I can't see the stars

Listen to what she says
The voice inside my head
Tells me the way to go
Here in the dark I know
A lighthouse shines for me

Watching the sailboats drift, so calm and sure upon a pale blue sea

Lighthouse shine for me
I've been drifting so far
Guide me back from the sea
To the place I was before
I've been losing my way
Now I can't see the stars anymore

No I can't see the stars anymore
