

summit

Kina Grannis

Did you get what you want?
Did it all pan out?
So you reached the summit and caught the sun
Are you happy now?
Did you come back here?
With your pockets out?
You reset the game, found a brand new pain to go on about

So you idle in the driveway on a long night
And you're running out, running out, running out
Running out, running out, running out

So you're at it again
Got your keys in the cold
And you still believe everything you need's down a different road
'Til the water arrives
And the storm coming in
And just for a moment the feeling is pulling you home again

And the shadow started shifting in the headlights
And it's running out, running out, running out
Now you're waking up with the problem on your own time
And it's running out, running out, running out

(Ah whoo)
(Running out, running out)
(Ah whoo)
Running out, running out, running out
