Part Two

King Missile

Then one day
The boy was walking through town
And he came upon the Minister's daughter

The Minister's daughter was so beautiful
The most beautiful girl the boy had ever seen
And on this particular day
She looked more beautiful than ever

He had decided that he was finally going to say something to he r
When she turn to him and asked him where he was going
He told her he was just walking around
And she looked deeply into his eyes and said
"I know something wonderful we can do, boy
"But first, you must prove that you are worthy."

The boy swore he'd do whatever she asked
She said, "I want you to jump over my daddy's church.
"Then I'll know you're the boy I've always dreamed of."

The boy walked over to the church
It was the tallest building in town
But the boy loved the beautiful minister's daughter

He focused on the very top of the church and said to himself
"I think I can, I think I can."
Then he huffed and he puffed
And he jumped over the church

There, on the other side of the church
Was the minister's daughter
Waiting for him with open arms

And the boy knew that the other thing
That was missing from his life
Was no longer missing
