The Deeper Divide

Kingcrow

Miles away
City lights are sparkling in the summer night
The wind carries the noise of their life to me
A quiet, distant choir of prayers, dreams and hopes
Entrusted to the night's care while I'm miles away
Feeling disconnected from what's left behind
Pretending to be stronger

Ran away
Didn't want to break you but what's left to say?
Every time I lied but I dug a hole
Where I used to hide, but just can't anymore

Went away
I walked through the crowd but still felt alone
Each one seemed so focused on his inner self
Like a quiet whisper in a screaming world
Buried by indifference but I

Ran away
Didn't want to break you but what's left to say?
Every time I lied

Now it's time
I'm gonna leave, there's nothing that can stop me now
Now it's time
My sweet oblivion, shut the door, throw away the key

Flying
Dying
Back to fear land
Reborn again
If only I could be me
The real me
So many miles away

Ran away
Didn't want to break you but what's left to say?
Every time I lied but I dug a hole
Where I used to hide, but just can't anymore
Pretending to be stronger

Ran away
Didn't want to break you but what's left to say?
Every time I lied but I dug a hole
Where I used to hide, but just can't anymore
Pretending to be stronger

Now it's time
I'm gonna leave, there's nothing that can stop me now
Now it's time
My sweet oblivion, shut the door, throw away the key
