

The Saviour

Kingfishr

Revelations
From the safety of my bed
Devastation
Well, that's all we ever did

You okay?
'Cause you're halfway up the wall
Wasting days
With the same old crew you swore you'd never call

Let alone and let it die
Holding your hands out to the sky to fight the rain
It's enough to make you cry
Trying to figure out if she ever felt the same
No it doesn't have to take you towards tomorrow
It doesn't have to feel like yesterday
Singing out glory hallelujah
I heard the Saviour's on his way

Bloody noses
It's a shame it all went wrong
Burning roses
We were just children all alone

You okay?
'Cause you're standing on the ledge
Yesterday
Is the root of all that evil in your head

Let alone and let it die
Holding your hands out to the sky to fight the rain
It's enough to make you cry
Trying to figure out if she ever felt the same
No it doesn't have to take you towards tomorrow
It doesn't have to feel like yesterday
Singing out glory hallelujah
I heard the Saviour's on his way

It might be the world is burning
It might be that all is lost
They might tell you this ain't worth it
And that the price ain't worth the cost

Glory hallelujah
Glory hallelujah
Glory hallelujah
Glory hallelujah

Let alone and let it die
Holding your hands out to the sky to fight the rain
It's enough to make you cry
Trying to figure out if she ever felt the same
No it doesn't have to take you towards tomorrow
It doesn't have to feel like yesterday
Singing out glory hallelujah
I heard the Saviour's on his way
