Leaning Against The Wall

Kings of Convenience

Your eyes are cold I know you'll tell me all

Not to fall I lean against the wall

I'm on the floor Not listening anymore

I should have known The things to which you're prone (You cross your arms And tell no lies A thousand thoughts run Through my mind A thousand words that I don't need I never thought you could do this)

I should have known The things to which you're prone (You cross your arms And tell no lies A thousand thoughts run Through my mind A thousand words that I don't need I never thought you could do this)

Your eyes are cold I know you'll tell me all Not to fall I lean against the wall