

Janie Blu

Kip Moore

Where you off to Janie Blu
Don't you know that your Daddy ain't home
He went and left that blame with you
And that's a real heavy thing to hold,
To hold

I've seen you lean on sweet addictions
When the pain's just a little too much
Do you think you'll find redemption
In the arms of a stranger's touch
A stranger's touch

Why you wanna keep runnin'
From the one thing that's been true
I know I can't keep clingin'
To my Janie Blu

Sometimes I think you might be healing
And other times I ain't so sure
Girl there ain't no shame in bleeding
But no such thing as pure

Why you wanna keep runnin'
From the one thing that's been true
I know I can't keep clingin'
To my Janie Blu

I've held you through the darkness
But girl I must confess
Right now I'm barely hangin' on
Like the cross around your neck

Why you wanna keep runnin'
From the one thing that's been true
I know I can't keep clingin'
To my Janie Blu
