Long Live Politzania

Klaatu

As facts are few and far between hypothesis denies all logic as to wh at precisely, er, led to her demise. For what appears sheer grandiosi ty, no legacy remains except her crumbling ruins on which these words were found engraved:

Politzania
Politzania
Long live Politzania
Politzania
Politzania
God save Politzania

Now these ancient Politzanians as far as archeologists have traced had most thoroughly convinced themselves they were a superior race. Quite a ridiculous notion, granted, however if we assume her sister rivals rose to quell such monstrous claims, I most humbly submit her unpleasant end is satisfactorily explained.

Politzania
Politzania
Long live Politzania
Politzania
Politzania
God save Politzania

Those citizens who questioned, those suspect harborers of doubt, were brought before a panel of the Ministry of Health.

They were tested and encephalographed

'Til rendered quite insane

When in accordance with the laws

They reprocessed their brains

They reprocessed their brains ha ha ha

They reprocessed their brains

The Politzanian National Anthem

Politzania, brave strong and true Politzania, we all love you We'll smite our foes for we are right And God is on our side

Politzania, red, white and green Politzania, reigning supreme Victors in war Champions of peace Unto eternity

(Everybody now)

La la la la la la la la la la

La la la la la la la la la la la la

La la la la

La la la la la

We're the masters of the world