And there was darkness before the word All that was formless has now evolved More non believers, run by deceivers I come alive in this revelation We come alive in this revelation (Know that you know nothing about me)

Oh, silence denied Aching and craving the sun Silence denied Take everything from me

Eating from the eyes of the gods we have sacrificed
Ourselves from the sins of the world
That has rotten all the minds and the souls we don't know what the right is from wrong
To misjudge what we are, what we're not Sacrificed myself, all I had was gone
Roof over my head burned down to my death

Was it fame? Was it fortune?
Or did you envy everything about me?
Inside your head I'm living rent free
'Cause you're still left right where you misguided dyslectic

Oh, silence denied Aching and craving the sun Silence denied

Buried in the light of the moon
There was nothing left to prove
To the sun counting down
Every second I was killed by minutes that I wasn't Till the honor drops

Sacrifice yourself, what you have now gone Roof over your head burned down to your death Renounce my name in blood There's nothing but silence

If in the end
The sun gives out on burning through the night
Will we embrace the dark to find a way
Or stay the same to fade away

And there was darkness before the word All that was formless has now evolved More non believers, run by deceivers We come alive in this revelation Know that you know nothing about me

Nothing about me
Know that you know nothing about me
Nothing about me
Know that you know nothing about me
