

Nevermind

Knox

Handprints in the concrete, just walked past it
Heart-shaped with an "R+K", my head's a disaster
It's you, why am I acting like I'm glued
To the mattress?
Maybe I'm stupid and dramatic, but I don't know what to do

You don't feel that bad about it
And you shouldn't if you hadn't
Dug my heart up like a coffin
Just to nail it shut and drop it

Never mind
I can't get you back if you were
Never mine
Just forget I asked that
I tried to give you my heart
But you treated it like it was garbage
So, never mind
I know you were never really mine

All good when I had you then you lost it
But it turns out needing you is exhausting, and I'm starting to Lose, why am I acting like I'm glued
To the mattress?
Maybe I'm stupid and dramatic, but I don't know what to do

Never mind
I can't get you back if you were
Never mine
Just forget I asked that
I tried to give you my heart
But you treated it like it was garbage
So, never mind
I know you were never really mine

(Mine)
(Mine)
(Oh, oh, mine)
(Mine)
(Oh, oh-oh, oh-oh, oh, oh)

(I'm) Blindsided, babe, I wish you had a reason
'Cause you're still on my mind
Oh, why'd you say it if you didn't mean it?
No, you were never really, you were never really mine

So, never mind
I can't get you back if you were
Never mine
Just forget I asked that
I tried to give you my heart
But you treated it like it was garbage (Like it was garbage, so)
So, never mind
I know you were never really mine

(Oh, oh-oh, oh, mine)
(You were never really mine)

(You were never really mine)
(Woah-oh-oh, you were never really mine)
(Woah-oh-oh-oh-oh)
