

Apt. 208

Kolby Cooper

Hey, good morning, baby
I wish you would pick up my call
'Cause I'm still alone
I'm scared I'm going crazy
I been talking to the walls
Even they know you're gone, girl

What's the price I'm gonna pay for you leaving?
Girl, what's it gonna take to believe me?

I wouldn't love the sun if it wasn't for the rain
Yeah, minutes slip like quicksand through my hands as I lie awake
Karma's cutting deep, now the walls are falling down in apartment 208
I'd never waste your time unless I thought it'd make you stay

I woke up in the shower
And it was screaming in my face
Why'd you make her go away?
It's getting worser by the hour
Maybe all I need is the irony

I wouldn't love the sun if it wasn't for the rain
Yeah, minutes slip like quicksand through my hands as I lie awake
Karma's cutting deep, now the walls are falling down in apartment 208
I'd never waste your time unless I thought it'd make you stay

I ain't changed the locks, girl, you know where I'll be Sitting in the dark, just workin' on me

I wouldn't love the sun if it wasn't for the rain
Yeah, minutes slip like quicksand through my hands as I lie awake
Karma's cutting deep, now the walls are falling down in apartment 208
I'd never waste your time unless I thought it'd make you stay

Unless I thought it'd make you stay
Unless I thought it'd make you stay
