

Everything Must Go

Kongos

If money buys time, but time don't exist
What am I buying, what do I still miss?

Now everything must go
Said everything must go

And if time is money, but money don't subsist
What's the point of lying, why are we so treacherous?

'Cause I've seen your disguise
But each time I'm surprised
And I've seen it all before
My only wish is I had tried
To photograph the other side
My only hope is when it breaks
I'm far behind the final wave
And I've found a way to keep what's mine
Before we hit the big rewind

Everything must go
Said everything must go
Everything must go
Everything must go

If money buys time, but I won't persist
What am I buying, of what do I consist?

If time is money, but money's an abyss
What's the point of lying, why are we so treacherous?

Now everything must go
Everything
Everything

'Cause I've seen your disguise
But each time I'm surprised
And I've seen it all before
My only wish is I had tried
To photograph the other side
My only hope is when it breaks
I'm far behind the final wave
And I've found a way to keep what's mine
Before we hit the big rewind

Everything must go
Everything must go
