Trust Your Heart

Krypteria

Your feel it's time to surrender Feel like a victim of circumstance You made a promise don't you remember? It's time that you understand you Are the only one To turn the key to destiny

Remember you need to stay true to your heart And don't forget who you are For then sch'll eventually be back in your arms, A brandnew start

Trust your heart an make up your mind It's time to lay it on the line, search for Answers deep inside Trust your heart and make up your mind You know that time flies, gor to cast Your fears aside

You said come hell or high water When things get rough she could count on you Can't you see you're about to hurt her? It's time that you understand you are The only one To turn the key to destiny

Remember you need to stay true to your heart And don't forget who you are For then she'll eventually be back in your arms, A brandnew start

Trust your heart and make up your mind It's time to lay it on the line, search for answers deep inside Trust your heart an make up your mind You know that time flies, got to cast Your fears aside