

For You

Kwan

If there's nothing else to fear than fear itself I'm in trouble, deep up to my neck and I hold up a facade of bravery and strength to the whole of the world you're the only one I have the guts to confess and fear, it shackles, I see that now it's like all the negativity it breeds itself inside on the whole of the world

You're using me ruthlessly heaven true

I am for you still you're breaking my heart

And though how hard I try to leave it all behind I cannot ignore that I'm trembling inside I'm trying to do and forget, forget it ever existed but it's two steps ahead lives deep down inside of me it breeds a whole brand of insecurities I hold up a facade of bravery
and strength to the whole of the world

I want to become as strong as I've been leading you all along veil and fiction await to be discovered