

Presenting - G Luv

Kyle Gordon

1998 to 2002, we all know it as the Golden Age of the Hip-Hop Love Song. And the undisputed king of this song was none other than Ja Rule, or so it seemed. Until a little known rapper from Westchester, New York teamed up with a local R&B legend and in early September 2001, dropped some rhymin' romance and made hip-hop her story. Or should I say history? Because this song is not good to women.

At No. 7, it's Felonious with "Ooh My Boy".
