

A Poem for 22: Dive In

Kyson

At the last light
In our last life
Do the walls speak
Like they do now

Let's remain who we are
A shout for cover
You can cry when you want it more
Don't hide between the bulls
Just let em loose
Catch a fire
Like ocean's swallow truths
I want nothing more

Don't want to weigh up of all your plans
Just to be the cause of a bad romance
Save the honor
Glad I know you

Say you wanna dive in
Take me to where life's deep
Just don't want to lose
Control

It seems so sweet
It feels so sweet
But so bitter too
And so bitter too

At the last light
In our last life
Did the walls speak
Like they do now

Let's remain who we are
A shout for cover
You can cry when you want it more
Don't hide between the bulls
Just let em loose
Catch a fire
Like ocean's swallow truths

I want nothing more

Don't wanna weigh up of all your plans
Just to be the cause of a bad romance
Save the honor
Glad I know you

And now I gaze
Like there's nothing
To keep from rushing
And do we last here
If there's no fear inside
Because what I fear inside
Is what is dear to me

And know I'm gone
Time is spinning backwards
If I could channel I would, oh I would
Even if I'm grateful now
Maybe I'm the foolish one
You say you wanna dive in
And take me to where life's deep
Just don't wanna lose control

Just don't wanna lose control
Just don't wanna lose control
Just don't wanna lose control
Just don't wanna lose control, like this

When I'm here in late spring
I don't really need that
I think people kind of scared of it
I don't think they come back
Swim until I can't float
Underneath, overflowed
Catch an intermission and it's peaceful
If I end the fury here
Maybe that will teach me to teach you
I'm running up the walls like a creature
When will it be half time
Past isn't repeated
Did you take me on this long night for another reason
Or just to elaborate how I really need you