

Streetlights

Kyson

The week is sad and stormy
As the garden sees some changes
And I know I feel better now
Cause I already know

As I walk around the backyard
And the flowers speak it to me
And the morning feels so strange
Cause I'm already gone

And your soul matched the photo
Of the almighty sea's roar
My breath was dragging
From the vipers touch

So lay me down here
Underneath the streetlights
Tell me that I'm lovely
At least one more time
And if I drown here
Underneath these blue skies
I wish I was lovely to you
All along

And

Picture us ten thousand miles away
Can we stay amused and honest
Keep it like a dreamy Sunday
I already know

And I heard the night was painful
But were human and it's crucial
Just to block the nonsense
Or we're overexposed

But your soul matched the photo
Of the almighty sea's roar
My breath was dragging
From the vipers touch

So lay me down here
Underneath the streetlights
Tell me that I'm lovely
At least one more time
And if I drown here
Underneath these blue skies
I wish I was lovely to you
All along

Need a minute for a breather
Honestly I'm pretty high
Wouldn't change it if I could
I have to say it's been a ride
It might be that we
Just begun this now

And the demons fight
But we just don't

So lay me down here
Execute the plan right
I wish I was lovely to you
All along
