

Summerland

Lacy J. Dalton

Oh they say there is a river
When we make our final stand
Where the spirit must cross over
Into Summerland, Summerland, Summerland

And they say this white old river
Has peaceful banks of pearly sand
Rainbow bridges we remember
Lead to Summerland, Summerland, Summerland

Everyone and everything we've ever loved
Will be there waiting on that distant shore
In that shining central sun there's a home for everyone
Safe in the arms of God forevermore

Everyone and everything we've ever loved
Will be there waiting on that distant shore
In that shining central sun there's a home for everyone
Safe in the arms of God forevermore

And there'll be no condemnation
No judgment and no cares
When we leave behind this earthly mind
We leave our sorrows there
(Leave them there)

If you fear to cross that river
You'll be led there hand in hand
By the angels of ascension
Into Summerland, Summerland, Summerland (Summerland)
Summerland, Summerland, Summerland, Summerland
Summerland, Summerland, Summerland
