

You Are The Apple

Lady Lamb

You loved me best in an airplane
I slept the length of the Atlantic
When I awoke we had landed
For days on end I thought about it

Had we crashed into the ocean
Had we perished in the sea
Had the mountain held us captive in his jacket, well, God forbid
I'd've been fine with that
Cause it would have saved me
Yes it would have saved me
It would have saved me
Yes it would have saved me
It would have saved me
Yes it would have saved me
It would have saved me from the look that you gave

Your lips so full that I could cry
Your lips so full that I could cry out my sockets
Cry out my sockets
Your eyes so close that I could hide in the closet
Hide in the closet
My heart so poor that I could wait for your hands in my pockets
My heart so broke that I could beg for affection
Beg for affection

Now I only have eyes for you
You are the apple
You are the apple
You are the apple
You are the apple
The alligators are here, they're just under the water
Under the water
Under the water
Under the water

You devoured my heart
You devoured my heart like it was strawberry cake at a birthday celebration
But I still need your love
I still need your love
I need your love
I need your love
Yeah, yeah, yeah
I still need your teeth around my organs
I still need your teeth around my organs
I still need your teeth around my organs
I still need your teeth around my organs
I still need your teeth around my organs
I still need your teeth around my organs
I still need your teeth around my organs
I still need your teeth around my organs
I still need your love
I still need your love
You are the apple
You are the apple
