

Koran

Laibach

I believe in a better world
I believe in a better place
I believe in brotherhood, equality and freedom
I believe in happiness for all

When the light is leading us
Through the darkness of the night
There are questions I will follow

When the light is leading us

There are all these questions on my mind

Words are nice
Words are memories of pain
The future is invisible
Words are something that remain

Words are substance for tomorrow
They are weapons of our mind
Words can take us far away
They will leave us all behind

You believe in a better world
You believe in a better place
You believe in brotherhood, equality and freedom
You believe in happiness for all

When the sun goes down again
And the moon is shining bright
There are all these questions on our mind