

Good Time

Larissa Lambert

Baby, it's about damn time
That you're all mine
Sick of being jealous, see you with whoever all of these nights
Baby, I been out my mind
But it's alright
I hate that I defend you, love it even when you telling me lies, no I

I should've known better, baby
But I thought that I knew who you were
You beat up my heart, you do over and over and over and over
I hate that I made it so easy
But you play a good game with your words
I know your kind, you the worst

Like what am I missing?
To win over your heart
Who am I kidding?
I ain't even your type
I'm just a good time
Lie, just to lie on my body, it's alright
Don't worry 'bout me
I'm just a good time
Don't worry 'bout me, baby, know I'll be fine
This is your night
Ohh, I'm just a good time

Look what you had baby, how you go and fumble that?
We take it slow, every step you keep on tumbling
Let me down every time, I've have enough of it
The way you do me make me never wanna love again
Am I blind or am I just fucking reckless?
The way you lying, oh you know that shit impressive
I trust too easy, I get myself too invested
And every time you come back, know I'll regret it

I should've known better, baby
But I thought that I knew who you were
You beat up my heart, you do over and over and over
I hate that I made it so easy
But you play a good game with your words
I know your kind, you the worst

Like what am I missing?
To win over your heart
Who am I kidding?
I ain't even your type
Ohh, I'm just a good time
Lie, just to lie on my body, it's alright
Don't worry 'bout me
I'm just a good time
Don't worry 'bout me, baby, know I'll be fine
This is your night
I'm just a good time
